

Intercity Transit Schedules Open House's Soliciting Big Ideas to Discuss Our Community's Transportation Needs

Intercity Transit launched the "Road Trip" to engage our growing communities in a conversation about the future of transportation in and around Thurston County. Our population is growing and our region and communities are changing. We are looking forward together, and want to consider how these changes will transform our community, including Intercity Transit services.

During June we are holding open houses throughout our service area to learn more about your priorities and preferences for public transportation. As part of our "Road Trip" efforts, we'd like to know:

- Which services or features are most important to maintain?
- How can we make public transit more convenient to use?
- What additional approaches or offerings should we consider in the future?

Our goal, with your help, is to have a public transportation system that meets local needs. We need your advice and creative ideas to ensure our services are effective, efficient, and sustainable for years to come. Think big-picture and let us know how we can help you get where you are going — no matter where you're headed or how you plan to get there.

Better transportation takes planning. Let's talk!

Intercity Transit staff will be on-hand to answer questions, listen to your suggestions, and collect those ideas!
